

Bio

Dr. Nicole Lugosi-Schimpf is an Assistant Professor in the Faculty of Native Studies at the University of Alberta in Edmonton, Canada. Nicole is from Winnipeg and is Red River Métis and East European. She holds a PhD in Political Science and her research investigates issues of structural racism, nationalism/nationhood, international issues, and Indigenous-newcomer relations.

Vision Statement

I believe that the work AASUA does to protect our workplace is important and necessary. As an Indigenous woman, my role as Alternate Councillor helps contribute to a diversity of perspectives among the Council.