IN SEARCH OF PROFESSOR PRECARIOUS is a 55 minute(also available in 81 minute version) documentary feature in which the director, a long-time precarious contract instructor, travels Canada to lift the curtain on higher education's dirty little secret. The search takes viewers into the lives of precarious contract faculty and tells their compelling stories. We also hear from permanent faculty, students, administrators, activists and experts. We see artists in action, experience an outdoor biology class on the shores of Nova Scotia, fight alongside a group of Alberta sessionals trying to make their faculty association more democratic, watch as the biggest higher education strike in Canadian history unfolds, and hear about the struggle in the U.S. and Mexico.
